

SO SPAIN WILL WAIT FOR UNCLE SAMUEL

SECRETARY OLNEY MAY LOOK UP RECORDS.

Says the Spanish Ministry Has Acted Handsomely in the Case of the Competitor—Speech From the Throne is Awaited With Interest By the People.

Washington, May 12.—The secretary of state says that the Spanish government has acted very handsomely in yielding to the request of the United States to suspend judgment in the case of the crew of the schooner Competitor until he can have an opportunity to submit reasons why the treaty stipulations have been violated by their trial by court-martial. In fact, every request and suggestion that has yet been made by the United States to the government of Spain has received the greatest consideration, and although the Spanish press and a portion of the people have made hostile demonstrations toward this country, the ministry has done everything possible to promote friendly feelings. On the other hand, the violation of the neutrality laws by citizens of the United States has been frequent and our courts have not yet been able to convict a single offender. Nor have the officers of the United States been able to prevent the sailing of vessels laden with arms and ammunition which have been reported by the Spanish ministers and consuls in this country as carrying contrabands of war. Every day or two some vessel lands in Cuba with supplies for the insurgents from the United States, and, although the president and secretary of state have issued the most rigid instructions, local officers have shown themselves either incompetent or unwilling to carry them out. Therefore, if there is a row between the two countries it will be our own fault. The president and the officials of the state department have been awaiting with interest the speech from the throne delivered by the queen to the Spanish cortes Monday afternoon, as it was expected to contain an outline of her policy regarding the reforms to be introduced into Cuba. When that plan is received in Washington the president will define his policy toward the Cuban revolution either in a message to congress or a letter from the secretary of state to the minister of Spain in Washington.

BERRY SCORES C. P. HUNTINGTON.

Denounces the Railroad Magnate for Asking Public Aid.

Washington, May 12.—The California deep-water harbor project was before the senate most of the day. It is seldom that a local improvement arouses so much feeling among senators, manifesting itself in a debate of unusual animation and of considerable personal feeling. Mr. Berry (Ark.) began the debate today, declaring that this proposed expenditure of $3,000,000 was against the public interests and in the private interest of C. P. Huntington of the Southern Pacific. Senators Vest and Caffrey took the ground that no appropriation should be made at present. Mr. Frye, chairman of the commerce committee, replied to the strictures upon the proposition and vehemently characterized the criticisms of Mr. Huntington as "savoring of the slogan of the sand lots."

Mr. Vest (dem., Mo.), member of the committee on commerce, said he could not see the necessity of this expenditure either at Santa Monica or San Pedro. He took no stock, he said, in the attacks on Mr. Huntington because he was a railroad president and a rich man. Like other men, he looked after his own interests. Mr. Vest believed Mr. Huntington was sincere in saying Santa Monica was the best point for a harbor. The senator said he dropped out of account all talk of monopolies and lobbies. Any United States senator who would permit a lobby to control him was unworthy of a seat here, said Mr. Vest. He based his objection on the fact that the country did not have a full treasury; the river and harbor bill already reached an enormous aggregate.

If the "endless chain" continued and great appropriations were made, then there must be more bonds. Under these circumstances this improvement could well afford to wait. Unfortunately, said Mr. Vest, Mr. Huntington is a political factor in California. Not even a town meeting can be held there without asking if this man is a Huntington man and that man is an anti-Huntington man. In view of this state of public feeling, Mr. Vest said he did not believe in settling this question and making the appropriation now. The senator urged that if the inner harbor at San Pedro was a success after a moderate outlay, as was expected, it would do away entirely with the necessity of a $3,000,000 expenditure for an outer harbor.

FAR FROM A SETTLEMENT.

Prospects in the Rinaker Case Are Good for a Recount.

Washington, May 12.—According to the present program the Rinaker-Downing election case will come up in the house today.

Evidence is not wanting to lead to the belief that Rinaker will not have a particularly easy road to travel unless the sentiment of the house changes during the progress of the debate. Downing had a plurality of forty in a total vote for congressman of 38,323.

The committee report on its race makes a net addition to Rinaker's vote of 53 and a net deduction from Downing's vote of 17, thus finding an apparent plurality for Rinaker of 30 votes. The margin is so very narrow and the deductions and additions made by the committee so insignificant, comparatively, that a large number of republican members of the house say they will not be able to vote for Rinaker on the showing made, but will vote to send the case back to the committee with instructions to recount the vote cast in the Sixteenth Illinois district.

It was impossible Monday to ascertain the extent of this feeling, but members were found in widely separated states who declared they could not vote for Rinaker under the circumstances, and for this reason it is feared that he may not be able to make out a case. An arrangement has been made for five hours' debate tomorrow, and it is believed a vote will be taken before night.

ASK A BOYCOTT ON ARMOUR.

Striking Kansas City Firemen Want Aid from Organized Labor.

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.—The forty-four striking firemen of the Armour Packing company have petitioned the national council of the Federation of Labor to declare an international boycott against the Armour products. This step was taken Monday at a meeting of the Industrial Council. The company refused to recede from its position, and when this was reported to the council the boycott was decided upon. A full report of the grievances of the firemen was dispatched to the national headquarters at Indianapolis. Upon a showing of the foregoing facts by representatives of the Armour company in the federal courts Monday afternoon, Judge Phillips granted a temporary injunction against the striking firemen, the officers and members of the Industrial Council of Kansas City and the officers and members of the Federated Trades Council, restraining them from carrying out the proposed boycott. The matter is set for a hearing Wednesday.

Four-fifths of the land is owned in fee simple, while the remainder is controlled under a lease in perpetuity. The purchasing corporation assumes possession on May 15. KNOW A GOOD THING WHEN THEY SEE IT

DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE LIKE CLEVELAND.

Set It Up For a Standard—Applicants For Conference of 1,900 Must Promise Them As Good Entertainment As They Received—The Proceedings.

Cleveland, May 12.—Bishop Waldon presided Monday morning at the opening of the Methodist general conference. The first business of the day was the introduction of a resolution providing that all future sessions of the conference be held in church buildings, if possible, and that the committee on entertainment for 1896 be so instructed. It was promptly laid on the table.

Another resolution provided that, the delegates being appreciative of the manner in which they had and are being entertained in this city, all cities making a bid for the conference should have it followed with a guaranty of as good treatment and under the same system and method. It was adopted.

A resolution to prevent a duplication of studies in the church schools and the public schools in the south was read and referred to the committee on Freedman's Aid.

Rev. B. F. Witterspoon, of southern California, presented a resolution declaring that color and caste do not enter into the conference, and further declaring that the election of a bishop of African descent should be viewed solely in the light of ability and without regard to color. It was presented for adoption, but the conference referred it to the committee on episcopacy.

The first formal application for the conference of 1900 was presented by Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and was referred to the committee on entertainment.

The committee on Freedman's Aid made its first report on a petition from the Delaware conference to change the name to Southern Education Society. The upper Mississippi conference protested against this. The report of the committee was in favor of retaining the name as it is now. The question was debated at some length, and various motions were made to refer or postpone, but all were defeated and the report was adopted.

Detroit, May 12.—Over five hundred union carpenters assembled in Central Labor Union Hall Monday morning instead of going to work. The bosses are willing to make a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour, and promise to concede that eight-hour day Jan. 1 next. This morning a motion to permit employes of contractors who might yield the eight-hour day to return to work was defeated. There are many non-union carpenters in the city, although the best workmen are generally included in the unions, which have upward of one thousand members.

ALFONSO FRIENDLY TO UNITED STATES

HIS DECLARATION TO THE CORTES.

Speech From the Throne Refers the Loyal Friendship to the Domain of Uncle Sam, But Also Complain of Foreign Aid Given the Cubans.

Madrid, May 12.—At the opening of the chambers Monday the queen regent, the young king in the uniform of a student of the military school, the Infanta Isabella and suite drove to the cortes in splendid carriages. Troops lined the route for the whole of the distance. The queen regent and the king were seated on a throne surrounded by the ministers, and were acclaimed by the deputies and senators. Premier Canovas then handed a copy of the speech to the queen regent, who read it to the assembly.

The relations with foreign powers, the speech says, are excellent. The correct and friendly attitude of the South and Central American republics in the presence of the Cuban rebellion, it says, serves to prove that each day develops still more the interests binding them to Spain.

In the United States, despite the efforts of public opinion in the contrary direction, the president and his government have not separated themselves from the line of conduct and the loyal friendship which have always existed between the two countries since the creation of the republic.

The pope has given renewed sympathy to Spain.

The government, the speech continues, will present the declarations signed by Japan on the subject of the delimitation of the Spanish and Japanese possessions in the far east.

The speech praises the conduct of the army and navy during the struggle in Cuba. The government is actively occupied with an increase of the defenses for the peninsula and for the colonies. The army will soon be provided with new pattern rifles and a complete artillery equipment. Spain has already increased her navy by twenty-five gunboats and other vessels. An extraordinary budget will be presented to provide for the acquisition of new ships and for improving the arsenals.

The queen regent referred during the speech to the measure voted by the chambers for reform in Cuba and Porto Rico. Despite these measures, she said, the rebellion had broken out in Cuba because the rebels desired independence, and not local autonomy. If the rebellion triumphed Cuba would take a step backward in civilization, interest, industry and commerce. Cuba could not prosper with independence.

The announcement is supplemented by the statement that in view of high state considerations the cases of the filibusters have been referred for final decision to the supreme tribunal of war and marine.

Two alleged filibusters, both citizens of the United States, and said to have formed part of the Competitor expedition, have arrived here in custody from Bahia Bonda. They were captured by the local guerrillas of Palma some time after landing.

CUBANS FALL IN BATTLE.

Several Engagements in Which the Spaniards Are Reported Victorious.

Havana, May 12.—Col. Segurra at Cienegueta, in the Caibarian district, was engaged with a considerable force of insurgents under Carillo, Mirabel and Gonzales. Segurra's column pursued the insurgents and came across 1,600 of them at Santa Rosa, where they occupied a very strong position. After two hours' fighting the insurgents were dislodged after a bayonet charge, and left sixteen killed. Later, the same body of insurgents was found to have occupied another strong, parapeted position, and this was also captured after the troops had charged with the bayonet. As a result of this second engagement the insurgents left twenty-seven killed and retired with fifteen wounded. In the two engagements the troops had four surgeons killed and two officers and seventeen privates wounded.

Only the day previous to receiving the stroke, while visiting a sick neighbor he remarked that he hoped he would have no lingering sickness at the close of his life. How little did he or anyone suppose that his wish would be so soon realized. Mr. Teetshorn was seventy-six years of age. He was possessed of a cheerful disposition, was a loving father and a kind neighbor. He was among the first settlers in this place and for more than forty-five years had resided upon the farm where he died. SMITHTON FARMERS ALARMED.

Fear That The Dry Weather Will Affect the Barley Crop.

Smithton, May 12.—Farmers are beginning to fear that the dry weather may prove disastrous to the barley crop. Mrs. Ira Livingston and son Inie, of Lockwood, Mo., former residents of this place, were visiting old friends here last week. John Chamberlain of Beloit, spent Sunday with relatives here. George Chamberlain and daughter Nettie of Chemung, Ill., spent a few days in this village last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dykeman attended the Sunday school convention at Clinton Sunday. An ice cream social looms up in the near future. Mrs. Ed. Smith of Clinton, visited at J. B. Smith's, Friday. Several May baskets have been hung during the past week. John Inman visited our Sabbath school Sunday. Come again, John. Our school celebrated Arbor Day by a trip to Carver's Rocks. O. Dykeman lost a good horse last week from congestion of the lungs. Miss Mattie Chamberlain was surprised by several of her young friends Friday night.

Some Gossip From Afton.

Afton, May 12.—Prof. Charles Bacon of Beloit College Academy, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church, both morning and evening, Sunday, delivering two good discourses. A change in the time of holding evening service has been made, the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting coming at 7:30 and the preaching service at 8 o'clock during the summer months. David Waggoner is erecting a kitchen annex to his substantial village residence. Afton Camp, No. 2192 M. W. A. meets in regular session next Saturday evening and all members should endeavor to be present, as picnic time draws near and preparations for the great event must be made. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warner of Beloit, were the guests of W. H. Eldredge Sunday.

GIVE NO GRADUATION CONCERT

High School Pupils Will Have a Party Instead This Year

There will be no concert given at the close of the graduating exercises next month but instead a grand party has been planned to take place in the Armory on Tuesday evening, June 16. Concerts, during the hot month of June, were a tiresome to the class thought, but they also decided that "it was never too hot to dance." Smith's orchestra has been engaged and there is little doubt but what the affair will be the event of the season.

RYAN HAS A NEW FUNERAL CAR

Handsome New Hearse Built By The Janesville Carriage Works.

Dan Ryan, the popular liveryman, now owns one of the finest hearses in the state. The vehicle is a handsome one. It was purchased of the Janesville Carriage Works and is a credit to that enterprising firm. The price was stated as $1,150, but there is nothing too good for Mr. Ryan.

THE 26 BEST "ADS" CHOSEN BY WOMEN

RESULT OF THE GAZETTE'S OFFER TO ITS READERS.

Dry Goods Dealers and the Shoe Men Get the Votes of the Women—The Men Who Voted Favored the Clothing Dealers—The List

Over seventy per cent. of the competitors in The Gazette advertising contest were of the gentler sex. After this explanation it may be needless to say that dry goods advertisements had a strong pull. Twenty-three days out of twenty-six dry goods ads received the most votes. The other three days shoe ads were chosen, shoes being another line on which the influence of the gentler sex is felt.

The men who voted divided their favors more evenly. Among them the favorite ads were those of clothing dealers, but the New Gas Light Co. ad found numerous admirers.

The "best ads" on each day as determined by vote were:

- April 1, J. M. Bostwick & Sons.
- April 2, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 3, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 4, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 6, J. M. Bostwick & Sons.
- April 7, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 8, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 9, Richardson Shoe Co.
- April 10, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 11, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 13, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 14, Brown Bros. & Lincoln.
- April 15, J. M. Bostwick & Sons.
- April 16, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 17, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 18, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 20, Archie Reid & Co.
- April 21, Archie Reid & Co.
- April 22, Bennett & Cram.
- April 23, Brown Bros. & Lincoln.
- April 24, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 25, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 27, Archie Reid & Co.
- April 28, Bort, Bailey & Co.
- April 29, J. M. Bostwick & Sons.
- April 30, Archie Reid & Co.

This is not exactly a fair showing of the relative favor in which the ads of different firms were held, however, for a number of firms received a strong vote each day and evidently stood well with the voters even though they were not at the head on any one day.

Throughout the month this fact was prominent:

Blunt statements of news about goods, with prices annexed are what draws most attention.

DR. WHITING IS HONORED.

His Letter to The Gazette Reproduced By the State Superintendent.

Janesville is honored by the selection of a beautiful bit from the pen of a Janesville man in the Memorial Day publication issued by the state department of public instruction for use in the public schools. It is the letter from Dr. J. B. Whiting first printed in The Gazette, descriptive of the meeting of four distinguished Wisconsin veterans—Fairchild, Jones, Timme and Oakley. The letter occupies a place of note in company with Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Logan's Decoration Day address, Henry Ward Beecher's tribute to the American flag and gains with every reading.

HORSE TOO WEAK TO STAND UP

A Second Ward Equine Has Long Been Without Food.

A case of alleged cruelty to animals has been discovered on Glenn street and the man said to be responsible is now threatened with arrest. A complaint reached the ears of Agent S. Kenyon of the Humane Society, last evening that a horse in a Second ward barn was too weak to walk and unable to stand up. Agent Kenyon with the assistance of Will Reed was finally able to set the poor animal on its feet. The man who owns the animal has two more horses and he makes a living by cleaning up yards and plowing gardens. He was warned to take better care of the beasts in the future.

Prof. Thompson Ready For Work.

A representative of the Gazette called on Prof. M. D. Thompson this morning at his new studio of music, Room 3 Bennett block, which he has been furnishing during the past week. In conversation with Mr. Thompson we find in him a gentleman with exceptional experience. Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois papers, in cities where he has taught, speak of him in the most flattering terms as to his ability as teacher of string and brass instruments and concert work. Mr. Thompson has also had many engagements in different churches in violin and concert work of which the papers speak in the highest terms. Mr. Thompson's whole life has been devoted to music, and for the past sixteen years has made teaching a business. We are confident that he will not only do well here in private lessons, but will be well received and appreciated by our local talent. He has a large library of music, fine instruments, etc., and coming so well recommended, those who wish to learn the violin, or any instrument that he gives instruction on, should begin at once, and make it a pleasure and profit to both teacher and pupil. Mr. Thompson will make a valuable addition to the musical circles of the city and The Gazette wishes him much success.

Janesville Man's Flock of Sheep All Grew Large Fleeces.

When it comes to raising sheep, Charles Cleveland of this city, comes in for his part of the glory. From one hundred sheep on the Cleveland farm in the town of Center, 1650 1/2 pounds of fleeces were clipped, while seventeen of the flock furnished 340 pounds, which is considered a very large average. From one of his two-year olds was sheared 28 pounds of fleece which was of but eleven months and twenty days' growth. From his prize sheep "Alis" was obtained 32 1/2 pounds of wool.

Beach & Bowers minstrels gave an excellent performance at the Myers Grand last evening and the audience was large enough to tax the house. The members of the troupe are old time minstrel men, and the fact that they play for ten, twenty and thirty cents does not indicate the grade of the performance. The engagement closes tonight and the house will probably be filled to overflowing.

THE MOUFLO IS SLY GAME.

An Animal Which Knowing Sportsmen Find on Corsican Hills.

There are some surprises awaiting the sportsman who visits Corsica, a few of which are told about in the Badminton Magazine. The writer of the article was a British naval officer, and the Corsican commandant treated him and his party very politely, refused to look at their hunting permits and passports, gave them a dinner with fine cigars and wine captured from a brigand band by his own gendarmes, and sent for the best native guide to be put at their disposal. What is more, he put a small squad of cavalry at their service to rescue any member of the party so unfortunate as to be captured and held for ransom.

The goathead who served as guide was a good one. He knew the mouflon, or wild mountain sheep, perfectly, and it was through his efforts mainly that the party was successful. The writer carried a 38-calibre, double-barreled express rifle, shooting a hard-head bullet. A long, hard climb in the steep mountains, with frequent pauses for using the telescope, resulted in sighting the quarry moving in a patch of heather, which frequently hid them from view. All but the old ram were feeding in a restless, shifty manner; he was perched on an overhanging ledge looking out for hunters. The mouflon knows a thing or two, and when a flock are feeding they always have some keen old ram or ewe where it can see the country below best. They are as wild as, perhaps wilder, than any of their kind, whether found in Europe, Asia or America; but, like others, they may be approached from above, wind and ground permitting. No bungler need hope for one, as they are so constantly hunted by natives as to be always on the lookout. The natives kill at all times, and kill all things from lambs to rams. The first kill was by good luck, not by reason of skill, for the animals ran past one of the party, who shot, at eighty yards, missed the big ram, and hit another, which happened to be just beyond, in the neck. The throat shot is a right good one to make. It kills quicker than either head or shoulder shots, which are somewhat easier to make.

The guide refused to dress the killed animal. "Why should he waste the best part?" he asked. So he carried the seventy-three pounds five miles to camp, where he got his choice and the Englishmen got theirs.

Their camp was an attractive place, at the edge of a clump of trees, at least 120 feet high, near a babbling trout stream, just fifteen miles from Corte. They bought some fresh milk, a loaf of chestnut bread, and some goat milk cheese, just to get acquainted with the herders of a big flock of goats and a few sheep. Later they were welcomed to huts of the herders, which shows the best way to treat the natives of any region, more especially in a region where native cavalry is put at one's disposal by good-natured officials. If they had put themselves on pinnacles for the herders to look at, half the fun of the trip would have been lost, or gained, in man hunting.

BEDRIDDEN.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Doctors Wanted Seven Hundred Dollars to Attempt the Case.

The following is a letter we received a short time ago from Mrs. M. C. Hinkley, 602 North Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind.:

Gentlemen:—While suffering intensely from piles, I became interested in your advertisement in one of our daily papers and procured a package of your Pyramid Pile Cure from our druggist. Contrary to my expectations, the relief was instantaneous. I used two boxes of the Pile Cure and one of the Pills and am convinced that they are the only cure for piles on the market. I have been a sufferer from piles for fifteen years and have been confined to my bed about one-half of the time, expecting and wishing for death for the pain was so great. I went to the college here and the doctors said my case was a new one to them, the great pain having brought on a large rupture, which they wanted seven hundred dollars to cut out. I was very much afraid that death would result from the blood-poisoning which they said would result from the operation. I feel as though I can't praise the Pyramid Pile Cure and the Pyramid Pills too highly, as I am convinced that they saved my life. Before using your cure I weighed only ninety pounds and now I weigh one hundred and fifty and feel as well as I ever did in my life. You are at liberty to use this testimonial in any manner you may see fit, as I want all sufferers from this terrible disease to know that there has at last been compounded a remedy that will cure piles.

MRS. M. C. HINKLEY.

THE PEOPLE'S VOICE HEARD.
There has never before been a contest for a republican presidential nomination in which one candidate has so far distanced all the rest as to practically decide the question in advance of the meeting of the convention.

Lincoln was renominated in 1864 with only one state voting against him, and Grant secured his two nominations in 1868 and 1872 without opposition; but in those cases the conditions were exceptional, and the nominations were simply the formal expression of an overwhelming public sentiment in favor of a certain man, based upon considerations of vital importance to the country. But it is entirely different this year. McKinley does not occupy any such place in the public estimation or bear any such relation to the interests of the government as Lincoln and Grant did. His candidacy has been contested at every step. He has been antagonized by some of the most skillful party leaders. Several conspicuously capable and worthy men have competed with him for the prize. Nevertheless, he has carried state after state until the roll of delegates instructed to support him is practically decisive. His triumph is a notable and significant one. It has been won by an appeal to the people—the people who endure much but who are mighty when aroused.

MONEY ABOUNDS.
Trade is dull and the very dullness gives an opportunity to refute free silver arguments. It affords proof that business is not being crippled by an insufficiency of money. The amount of money in circulation, outside the treasury, is today $150,000,000 greater than it was in 1890 and is larger per head of population than it was then; and yet, at the same time, a decline of 11 per cent in the clearings of the banks of the United States within the last five years, shows that less currency is called for now than 1890. We are real in the midst of a relative inflation of the currency. Isn't it about time for the inflationists to rise and explain?

There is $150,000,000 more money in circulation in the United States than there was in 1890. The people do not want an increase of currency, but more chances of employment. That is why they are against free silver and in favor of protection.

Wm. McKinley is trusted and admired by all republicans, including those who have worked hardest for other candidates, and his nomination will give entire satisfaction and be ratified at the polls in November by a tremendous majority.

During last year the town of Bradford, England, increased its exports of coatings to the United States from $1,200,000 to $7,500,000, and of "stuff goods" from $2,200,000 to $8,400,000. Mr. McKinley will get few votes in Bradford.

The last of the republican presidential delegates must be chosen by the 17th of this month. There isn't likely to be much talk about state politics, however, until the St. Louis convention is over.

St. Louis would like to work up a little anti-McKinley sentiment for fear that the certainty of the Ohio man's nomination will keep people away from the convention.

KEELEY CURE LAW INVALID

Duties Assigned To The County Judge Are Not Judicial.

Janesville lawyers and the authorities of Rock county are considerably interested in a decision of the Minnesota supreme court at St. Paul. The supreme court has decided that the county "jag cure law" passed by the last legislature is invalid for the reason that it confers upon the probate judge power not contemplated by the constitution. The opinion was written by Justice Mitchell, who says that neither the legislative nor the executive branch of the government can assign to the judiciary duties not judicial. In this case the duties are not judicial, for the place where the inebriate is to be treated is not designated by the judge, but by three citizens to be appointed by him. In the next place the question as to whether he will go to an institution or whether he will stay there after he has gone voluntarily there rests entirely with the inebriate himself. The probate judge cannot commit him against his will and after he has entered the institute voluntarily he may leave at any time it suits his fancy. In no sense can the probate judge or the commission of officers of the institution assume any rights of guardianship over the inebriate. Hence the rules applying to guardianship give the probate judge no authority in cases of this kind because they do not apply.

The case on which the decision is made is that of Frank Foreman against the county commissioners of Hennepin county. Foreman is proprietor of the Keeley institute and sought to compel the commissioners to comply with the law of that county. The district court sustained the law but the supreme court has reversed that decision.

The claim against Rock county has not yet been adjusted, so the St. Paul case has an important bearing.

GREEK PLAY HIGHLY PRAISED

Miss Jackson of This City Entrusted With An Important Role.

Much interest was aroused in Janesville by the Greek play which students in Rockford college produced. A portion of the Medea of Euripides was given in the original tongue, with elaborate accessories and very effectively. Miss Fanny Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jackson, carried a leading part—that of Creon, king of Corinth. Chicago papers speak highly of the production. Professor Wright, Greek Professor of Beloit college, with a number of the classical students of Beloit college witnessed the play, and Professor Wright was enthusiastic in his praise of the accuracy of the rendition. Rockford College has been most fortunate in securing for the past few years the instruction of Miss Knutson, a graduate of Radcliffe college, better known perhaps, as Harvard Annex. She is an unusually proficient classical scholar herself and also a most thorough instructor.

How many young men and young women are cut off just when the future seems brightest and fullest of promise? They are taken away by the disease which causes over one-sixth of all the deaths in the world—the disease which doctors call consumption. There is absolutely no reason in the world why consumption should be fatal—why it should be even serious. It is a disease of the blood, and can be cured absolutely and always by purifying and enriching the blood. The only exception to this is the case where the disease has been neglected and improperly treated until it is stronger than the body—until the body has become so weak as to have lost the ability to recuperate. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if used according to directions. It also cures all lingering coughs, bronchial and throat affections.

ONE MEETS DEATH ANOTHER TO DIE

Flying Train Crashes Into a Buggy
At Footville This Afternoon.

MRS. MARY SNYDER WAS KILLED INSTANTLY.

Her Companion, Miss Myrta Silverthorn, Had Her Back Broken and Will Die—Blinded by The Rain, Hail and Wind Storm, They Failed to See Their Danger—Engineer did Not See Them—Other Accidents.

Two women, blinded by fierce gusts of hail, drove to their death this afternoon. They were:

MRS. MARY MARGARET SNYDER, almost instantly killed.

MISS MYRTA SILVERTHORN, back broken and cannot live.

The tragedy occurred half a mile north of Footville. Mrs. Snyder and Miss Silverthorn were in a carriage drawn by two horses. Hail and rain filled the air—objects fifty feet away were hidden absolutely. As they approached the railroad crossing the storm was at its worst. The hail was furious and both women had shawls about their heads as mufflers. In the storm the roar of an approaching train was lost.

The crossing is in plain view for a mile on either side but in that storm nothing could be seen. The women were fairly on the crossing when out of the hail cloud shot train No. 8, the heavy Dakota express.

Had No Warning.

Neither the engineer or the women seem to have had warning of the peril before the crash came.

The carriage was struck just about at the front wheels. Mrs. Snyder and Miss Silverthorn were thrown over a hundred feet.

Air brakes on the train were set with a jerk that threw passengers out of their seats.

Running back the train found Mrs. Snyder breathing her last.

Miss Silverthorn, with her back broken, was moaning to be put out of her misery.

Both women were put in the baggage car and the train went on to the Footville depot where hundreds of agonized friends had already gathered.

Miss Silverthorn's death was expected at any moment.

Mrs. Snyder, as already said, was killed almost instantly.

John Rawlins Killed

After Engineer John Crowley had rode in an engine for thirty-three years without meeting with a fatal accident, the inevitable happened last night, and Crowley's engine nearly took a man's head off at Norwood Park, Ill., killing him instantly.

The man's name was John Rawlins and he was a prominent real estate man at that place.

Engineer Crowley pulls the "accommodation" and the accident happened soon after leaving Chicago yesterday afternoon. Near Norwood Park, Engineer Crowley saw Rawlins walking on the track. He blew the whistle repeatedly but Rawlins did not step to one side. Seeing that Rawlins did not pay any attention, Engineer Crowley applied the air brakes, but he could not stop the train. The engine struck Rawlins, throwing him to one side and tearing one-third of his head loose. The train was stopped and backed to the place where Rawlins lay. Dr. James Gibson of this city, was aboard, and found that Rawlins had been instantly killed.

Dr. Dudley's Cousin Hurt.

Dr. E. H. Dudley was hurriedly summoned to Chicago by a telegram last night, and left on a fast freight train, riding on special permit. The dispatch to him stated that while bringing home a runaway inmate of the Illinois Training School for Boys at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning, his cousin, Supt. C. L. Dudley was thrown from his buggy. His injuries were serious and may prove fatal. Three ribs on his left side were broken, the left scapula was fractured, severe wounds were inflicted on the face, and his physician fear that internal injuries were sustained.

Two boys escaped during the day, one of whom was captured at Thornton. At midnight the superintendent drove over there, recovered the truant and started home.

The night was dark and a big stone in the road overturned the buggy. Both occupants were thrown out violently. The boy procured aid and Dudley was conveyed to Thornton.

Walter Stedman Hurt.

Walter Stedman, catcher for the High School base ball nine, will not play ball for some time as the result of an accident. While he and Fred Palmer were practicing pole vaulting at the home of the latter on West Bluff street, Stedman fell while in the act of vaulting from the top of the pole. He landed in such a way as to break his collar bone. Dr. Chittenden dressed the injury and Stedman will be laid up for some time.

Boy Who Was Shot Is Dead.

Little Leo Hanthorn, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitte Hanthorn, who was accidentally shot Sunday, died at the home of his parents this morning. There was but scant hope of his recovery, as the wound in his head allowed the brain to ooze out, and the bullet could not be found. Mr. and Mrs. Hanthorn will have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

The funeral will be held from the home at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning and the interment will be made at "Old Johnstown." The boy's death occurred at 11:45 this morning.

Boy Kicked by a Horse.

At eight o'clock last evening Charles Thornton was kicked in the leg by the horse he was watering at the Corn Exchange fountain. He went to uncheck the animal by stepping over the dash board. Dr. Sutherland was called but found no bones broken.

SAYS EGAN STOLE CASH AND A NOTE

CENTER BOY CHARGED WITH SERIOUS OFFENCE.

W. H. Selk Alleges That He Confiscated $50 and a Note for $700—Eagan Denies the Charge—The Pocket-book Had Been Lost on the Road.

Martin Egan, Jr., of Center, was arrested by Constable Cochran on the charge of having stolen $150 in cash and a note for $700, the property of W. H. Selk. Egan was brought before Judge Phelps in the municipal court this morning, and by consent of the parties the case was set for May 21 at 9 o'clock a. m. Egan gave bail in the sum of $700, his father, Martin Egan, signing the bond.

Selk lives in the town of Center. On April 29 he went to the postoffice on horseback. He got his mail, and had the money and note in a long pocketbook in his hip pocket. On his way home, and when near his residence, the horse he was riding got frightened, and in the fracas Selk lost the pocketbook and the mail. When he got home he discovered that the pocketbook was gone.

Egan, it is charged, was on his way to Footville at this time and saw Selk's mail lying beside the road. He says he did not disturb it as it was near Selk's residence and he thought Selk would come after it. He also says that, there was no pocketbook in sight. He left the papers, etc., lying beside the road and went on. After dinner Selk returned and got the mail, but couldn't find the book. He charges Egan with taking it while Egan denies the charge. The note was payable at the Aurora, Savings Bank Aurora, Iowa and was signed by W. C. Schroeder and Lewis Schroeder. The money taken was all in currency.

THE GIRL HAD BEEN NEGLECTED

First Ward Young Lady Locked Out With

Pail of Luncheon.

The attention of the Humane society has been called to a case of alleged cruelty to children which has been reported from the First ward. Neighbors complained to the society that a woman living in that ward had an adopted daughter, aged eight years, who was not properly provided for. The woman makes her living by doing outside work, and the people said that while she was away during the day this girl was locked out of the house and with nothing to eat. An investigation followed and it was found that the girl was given her meals in a tin pail and that she was not starving as was stated. The woman promised to care for the girl in a better manner in the future, and the case was not prosecuted if she kept her word.

CARNIVAL TRAGEDY

FERNANDO was handsome as an Apollo, straight as a reed and of such noble, manly bearing that I, his dwarfed and ugly brother, had always worshiped him with blind, persistent adoration.

When Alicia came between us I began to look upon his superior charms with all the bitterness of greedy envy. His perfect physique grew hateful to my eyes and the noble face took on a mask of proud congratulation.

It was the evening before the Carnival of the Flowers that I reached the acme of despair; Alicia, starry-eyed and velvet-lipped, had talked and danced with Fernando until my heart was almost bursting.

Alicia was of Spanish birth, her father, the Conde de Tornasol, had been one of the highest nobles in the land, and had early wed his daughter to one who later escaped from his country to roam the world, friendless and alone, with a conspirator's price upon his head.

It was just after an unusually tiresome waltz and I had lost sight of Alicia for a moment. I left my seat and wandered about the rooms, searching everywhere for the starry eyes, whose owner was the glory of my world and heaven. At last I saw her, sitting alone in a darkened corner, hidden so completely by a towering palm that no glance, other than from the eye of love, would ever have detected her.

I pushed aside the struggling leaves and stood suddenly before her, and, in spite of her grace and breeding, she could not forbear to start at the hideous picture I must have made.

Then she extended her taper hand and smiled into my hideous face. "Oh, señor, you have found my hiding place!" Then with a flood of rapture almost blinding my senses, I saw that she had moved a little and was making a place for me upon the divan beside her.

For once her smiles, her gracious words, were all for me alone. I listened, half intoxicated, and answered like one in a dream. I bent forward, my lips parted, to tell her all, when suddenly a black shadow fell across the palms, and I had only time to bite my lips to silence when my brother's voice, low, tender, and oh, how exquisitely modulated, fell, knell-like, on my ear.

There was a gentle laugh from Alicia. She touched my hand with her jeweled fingers and, breathing some word of regret at leaving me there, rose swiftly from the sheltered nook and went back into the glare of light, leaning once more upon my brother's shoulder.

At that moment I could have killed him in my rage. What right had he to steal upon us at this, the first sweet moment of my happiness?

I hurried from the ball to plan my revenge, for in an instant it had come to me that were he not so constantly by her side there might be some little hope.

The next morning, the first day of the famous carnival, broke fair and golden in its splendor. The sun of the Riviera was shining brilliantly upon the waters of the Mediterranean, and from the peaks of the distant mountains there came a cooling breath of air that seemed to soothe my frenzy just a little. Calmly and deliberately I made my plans. The costume I selected was calculated to disguise my hideous form, and even make me many inches taller through the monstrous helmet I assumed.

As a last addition to my toilet I purchased a keen-edged dagger.

It lacked but a moment of the signal gun so I began my ghastly task by walking slowly about, jostling as best I could among the crowd, but with my eyes fixed anxiously upon each balcony in turn in a feverish searching for my brother.

SPRANG LIKE A TIGER AT HIS BREAST

At last I saw him, leaning boldly above a flower-decked rail, and although his face was shielded by a mask, I knew him by his noble shoulders. Hurriedly I secured a bunch of pure, white roses, then darting across the street, managed to secure an empty chair upon the balcony beside him.

In another instant the warning gun had boomed and for a moment heaven itself seemed raining flowers, and storms, yes, even hurricanes of roses, hyacinths and violets burst furiously upon the air.

Did he know Alicia's disguise, I wondered, and then for a moment I cursed my own stupidity. How should I know her in that passing throng? The starry eyes would, beyond all doubt be veiled, and the silvery voice would hardly reach my ear in such a Babel of confusion.

I turned and scanned my brother's poor disguise, hoping, I knew not why, for something that would aid me in my dire dilemma. Another instant and my heart grew light. Fernando turned, and my eye caught instantly a golden gleam, the glitter of a shining star, pinned directly above his heart.

"So that is your private badge of recognition," I muttered bitterly, and then began to scan more closely than ever the occupants of the gorgeous carriages.

At last she came drawn by, four-milk white, prancing steeds, whose necks were hung with crimson roses, and then for the first time I discerned that my brother held a monstrous bunch of the same rare, fragrant blossoms.

Curiously, eagerly, the starry eyes, behind a snow-white veil, searched everywhere the teeming balconies, and at last, just as she reached his seat, Fernando rose, and bending toward her displayed his golden bauble.

He bent and dropped the ruby cluster directly at her feet and a rush of feeling seemed to overpower her, for, forgetful of both time and scene, she touched her fingers to her lips and wafted a kiss directly to the giver.

"Coward!" I hissed, "to steal a woman's love!" And then, as the man, half puzzled at my words, turned suddenly and took one step my way, I rose, and, throwing my roses in his face, sprang like a tiger at his breast and stabbed him to the heart exactly over the spot so lately shielded by the golden bauble.

There was a shriek from the street, so fierce, so loud and so long, that for an instant everything was still, but when I crept unhindered from the spot only a second later, the battle had begun again and the tragedy of love and rage was over and forgotten.

Why I was not stopped I do not know, unless it was that some had seen the dagger and believed the whole thing to be a farce to add excitement to their pleasure. However it was I eluded them all and quickly undoing my disguise, left it to be trampled with the flowers while I hurried away from the sweet confusion.

Turning my back upon the city I went my way until on the following day I found myself mounting the marble steps that led to the gambling den at Monte Carlo. Half way up the stairs, with the memory of my evil deed still burning in my brain, I stopped suddenly, chilled to the very marrow, for just before me, noble, handsome as of old, I beheld my brother Fernando.

"My God!" I shouted hoarsely. "What have I done! What have I done!"

Fernando quickly descended the steps and stood beside me: "Have you been losing, Pedro?" he said kindly. "If so take this," and he held a handful of gold before me, while I stared in stupid horror.

"When—when did you come here?" I asked him wildly, and for answer Fernando took me by the arm and led me slowly away.

"You are my brother, Pedro, and I will tell you all," he said in a strangely mournful tone. "You see, I was fool enough to fall in love and the lady's—Alicia's husband has returned!" he finished sadly.

I caught my breath with a stifling gasp. "Does this man, Alicia's husband, resemble you?" I asked in horror.

"In form, yes, in face, no," he replied briefly.

With a sudden sob of weakness I told him the awful story, and Fernando, noble Fernando, only took me by the hand and said compassionately: "Yours has been a hard lot, Pedro. Deformed and hideous from your birth, but let us not add more of wickedness to crime. Leave this cursed spot and go you quietly to Paris and await me there. It is just possible that you did not kill the man, and as no one suspects you now you can safely trust it all to me."

I went to Paris and waited. After a week, my brother, handsomer, nobler than ever, but with a plaintive sadness in his tones, brought me the following information: "No one suspects you and the man is yet alive. There was a badge of some kind pinned above his heart that turned the dagger's edge, but—" he continued sadly, "he had better have died at once, for this sin of yours has brought about his capture, and Alicia will lose her husband soon, either before the prison walls or by the stroke of la guillotine."

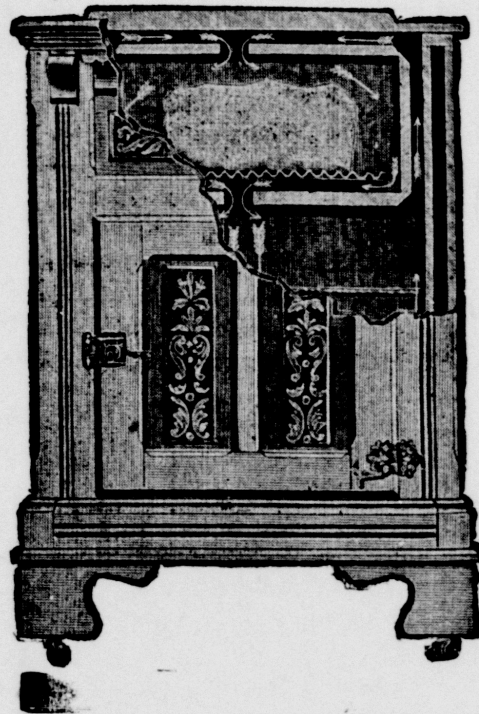

Thoroughly subdued and in misery of spirit, I returned to Nice. The streets seemed deserted in the silence following the carnival, and it was only when an execution was announced that there was any show of excitement among the weary people.

Again the streets were thronged, but I did not venture out. Fernando brought me the news as I laid, trembling and conscience-stricken, in my bed, and when I learned that Alicia, the beautiful, starry-eyed Alicia, was widowed by my hand, I wept such tears of agony that my brother was gravely startled.

I am failing rapidly, the physicians say, but my secret is safe with my noble brother. It is nearly a year since the carnival and now Fernando has a secret of his own, one that he gladly lets me share, for he knows that sorrow and remorse have shriven my soul of guilty deeds and filled my heart with penitence.

DOWN RIVER ON A STURGEON.

Exciting Ride Until the Fish Was Beached on a Sandbar.

Among the many incidents of the olden time that interest us now, Dr. J. Russell Hawkins tells us of one that happened in James river, at the falls of Richmond, in the year 1779, says the Richmond Religious Herald. He assures us that many of the leading citizens of Richmond at that time were eye-witnesses to the fact, and that he had it straight from them.

It was concerning Martin Hawkins, an uncle of the doctor. This uncle was a great hunter and fisherman. In those days James river was well stocked with shad. In May they came up from the sea, and hundreds of people, fond of the sport, would assemble on the rocks in midstream along the falls, and with dip-nets would supply themselves with all they wanted. Our hero was at his post watching for a catch, when along came an immense sturgeon, and stopped to rub his sides against the rock, according to the habit of sturgeons, when Mr. Hawkins concluded that if he could only get his hands into the gills of the monster he might succeed in landing him. Accordingly he crept to the side of the rock, stooped over, and began rubbing the sides of the fish near the tail, and proceeded quietly toward the head, until at last the gills were reached. With a sudden thrust the hands were sent home to the very inner jaws of the fish, when it gave a lurch that jerked the fisherman from the rock. He fell astride the fish's back, but his hands were held as in a vise. For a moment all was surprise and interest, then both fish and rider sank in the deep, roaring waters of the flood. The spectators were aghast with fright. They thought their friend was lost. But, after a few moments, fish and fisherman came to the surface about 100 yards down the river, and remained at the surface long enough to breathe, then sank again. A moment later they rose again, and then again and again, as the waters bore them away. They passed under Mayo's bridge, half a mile from the starting point.

People along the shore became excited and gave chase as best they could. In the meantime the fish was being exhausted and the rider had discovered it and began to try to steer for a sandbar, then a little way below them. This he reached successfully. And here, after a struggle, he dragged his trophy ashore on the Chesterfield side of the river, or on the side opposite from the point of starting. Richmond was then a small town, and in a little time this strange adventure was known to every inhabitant. An ovation followed. The fish, which measured ten feet and weighed 300 pounds, was served up in a manner to suit every taste, and the night that followed this episode was spent in high glee, and the distinguished adventurer was ever afterward known as Martin Hawkins, the sturgeon rider. This gentleman died in his 73d year at the residence of a friend, Daniel Burton, about ten miles west of Richmond.

Mrs. Surratt's Arrest.

On the night of Monday, April 17, Mrs. Surratt was arrested. While the officers were searching her house Payne appeared at the door. He was admitted by one of the searching party, and being examined as to his identity, stated that he had been engaged by Mrs. Surratt to dig a gutter for her in the back yard the next morning (he had a pick on his shoulder), and had come to receive further instructions as to the work; this at eleven o'clock at night! Mrs. Surratt was summoned and when asked if she knew the man, said vehemently, raising her hands to heaven: "Before God I do not know this man, and did not engage him to dig a gutter for me." Payne had spent the night at Mrs. Surratt's on one or two occasions, had visited the house frequently, and she knew him well. At the moment of this statement by Mrs. Surratt, Payne stood in the full light of the gas jet. The evidence both circumstantial and direct, is conclusive that Mrs. Surratt was an accessory before the fact.

Senator Vest's Turkey.

Senator Vest is a plain man—plain in his dress, his likes and his speech. He went into the senate restaurant a few days ago.

"Dick," said he to the waiter, "I want a plate of cold turkey."

"Yes, sir," said the man, as he moved away.

"And, Dick," said the senator, calling him back, "I don't want it decorated with any of that d—grass, either."

And so when the plate of cold turkey appeared the usual garnishing of green parsley was omitted.—Washington Post.

Couldn't Marry Her.

John Schweitzer, a young German laborer, shot and killed himself the other afternoon in Louisville at 1346 Story avenue, and until the other day it was regarded as an ordinary suicide, the result of despondency. Love and the A. P. A. were behind the affair. Schweitzer was a member of the order, and his sweetheart, Miss Lullie Scherzinger, is a Catholic, and his oath made it impossible for him to marry her. He regarded his oath before his love for her, and to settle all blew out his brains.

"By the way, what was done with that fellow who stole a bucket of coal from your woodshed?"

"Oh! the infernal thief went to the penitentiary. I prosecuted the case right up to the end. There should be no sympathy with thieves."—Chicago Post.

Not to Be Recognized.

Some one nudged the "new woman" who was presiding.

"What is it?" asked the latter.

"Why don't you recognize that little woman in the front row?"

"I haven't the honor of her acquaintance, and I have yet to see the book on etiquette that makes it even permissible to recognize one to whom you have not been introduced."

And the "new woman" looked at her critic as if she felt that she had completely crushed her.—Chicago Evening Post.

The Beaten Path

is easy to follow, although in some instances it costs much more to keep in it, than it would to get out.

There are men, sound sensible citizens, who learned the way in youth to a custom tailor's shop and they'll keep traveling the expensive path until, by accident, some day they drop in here and "look at kind of ready-to-wear clothes. Then if they are not totally blinded by prejudice they'll be converted to the new doctrine of perfect fitting clothes at prices that would make their tailors wince.

One swallow does not make spring but one swallow of One Minute Cough cure buries relief. C. D. Stevens.

Young mothers dread the summer months on account of the great mortality among children, caused by bowel troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhoea, it affords instant relief. C. D. Stevens.

More Brilliancy Than He Knew.

The ambitious Young Suitor was standing, hat in hand, in the hallway. "Tell Mr. Swaggers that a gentleman wishes to see him," he said to the butler, placing his hand on the doorknob in case of extreme emergency. The butler did as he was told.

"Huh! It's you, is it?" said the blunt old gentleman, advancing from the library, glancing sourly over his glasses. "Well, sir?"

The Young Suitor plucked up all his courage. "I wish to say, sir," he began, timidly, "that I love your daughter and desire to marry her. I have talent in my profession, some money, am a man of good family, a college graduate and a member of four swagger clubs. I work hard and it is no exaggeration to say that—er—" He clutched the doorknob.

"That—er—well, sir?" The old man advanced a step threateningly.

"That—er—" he stammered as he opened the door a little wider, "that—er—I have before me a brilliant future—"

"Yes," broke in the irate papa, as he glanced at the brilliantly lighted street, "you have!" And then the cyclone struck the ambitious Young Suitor amidships, so that when he landed at the bottom of the steps he saw twenty million stars before his bedazzled vision.

"Yes," pondered the poor fellow, as he picked himself up and began to put the pieces together again, "I was sure that I had a brilliant future; but, b' Jove! I didn't know it was going to be such a lightning display of fireworks as all that!"

And he went down the avenue whistling the sad, sweet strains of "Good-By, Sweetheart, Good-By!"—N. Y. World.
